

My name is Nóra Rónaszéki, I'm a second year student of international relations in the Corvinus University of Budapest. I take pleasure in studying 19-20th century history and political science. I was learning German at the primary school for eight years, and now I've been studying it at my university again. It's my favorite foreign language, and I'm interested in culture and history of Germany, Austria and Switzerland. I'm learning English, French and Italian too.

I would like to write some words about my hobbies too. I like riding bike in my charming small hometown, playing tennis and ice skating as well. In my free time I often read (literature, history, biographies, newspapers), listen to music, watch films, meet with my friends and go to walk, to cafés and to cinemas with them.

I'm very pleased to be a guide of the 40th International Chemistry Olympiad. It will be a great pleasure for me to get to know brilliant students from all over the world, and show them Hungary.
