

My name is Lilla Cseke. I am a first-year psychology student at the University of Eötvös Loránd. Simultaneously I also study at University of Economy (Corvinus University) where I am a second-year student

My favorite fields of interest are Mathematics, History and Business, and I also like making contacts with other people. Economics and psychology are different sides of the life, but I think where people are there we need to get to know their thinking, opinions. Economy is made up by people, so Economics and Psychology fit well together.

When I don't study and go to the Universities I also have free time. I like spending all my minutes with useful activities. I often help to organize a lot of parties (friend's birthday, New Year's Eve, my sister's wedding ceremony etc). I am a member of Pillar Foundation. It is an organization for people which lets students get to know the European Union.

I like exciting things and challenges! I like sports! I love running! I ran the marathon in Budapest and I also took part in a lot of running competitions (half marathons, 10 km and so on) I also like hiking, skiing, dancing, going to the cinema, drawing portraits, reading, meeting friends and jokes.
