

Hi! I am Marietta Le from Budapest, Hungary. I live in a small flat with my boyfriend in the garden suburb of the city – close to Gödöllő. We have two lovely and colorful parrots, and I hope in the near future we will get a small cat too.

I study at ELTE, at the department of Communications and Italian Studies. I will finish my studies in 2010, maybe as a journalist or an Italian language teacher. I also speak French very well, French language is my secret love, I also made some translations to Hungarian from French rap music because I like rap music very much.

My ambition is to be a journalist. I already wrote articles to some newspapers, but now I am a junior clerk at a new Hungarian television channel, my job is to rule a live-and-direct musical talk show program two times a week. I like this job very much because I can meet new people every week and I can learn very much from the relations among people.

I decided to be the guide of the Vietnamese group this year because my father is Vietnamese (my mother is Hungarian). But my experiences of Vietnamese culture are very few, so I am happy to get the chance of meeting students from Vietnam.
